Hello!

Thanks for reading MARCELZINE, your #1 zine for all things Marceline. For this special 30th issue I've gone NUTS:

color printing, nice matte paper,

★ TOTALLY RAD INTERIOR CONTENTS

- the works!

Marcelzine rules and is well worth whatever you paid for it. Most books won't tell you that they rule on the first page, but that's because they're afraid that it won't turn out to be true. But this book objectively rules, so I'm not afraid to give you a heads up on that:

this is awesome, you're lucky you get to read it, THE END.

I thought it'd be fun to have a theme for this issue, so I put up an open call for comics. Everyone loves comics, right? All the comics here either have my OFFICIAL STAMP OF APPROVAL or are here because honestly it was easier to print them than listen to people complain.

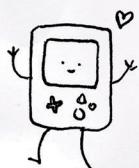

Lumpy Space Princess, I am looking in your direction. I know she's only going to flip through this once to make sure her comic is included, so she'll never read this. LSP, if you do actually read this, come up to me and say "syzygy" and I will give you a can of beans. A full can. Mmm-MMM, beans.

(SPOILER ALERT: SHE WILL NEVER SEE THOSE BEANS BECAUSE SHE WILL NEVER ASK. IN FACT I'M SO CERTAIN I'M EATING THE BEANS RIGHT NOW)

★ (UPDATE: THEY WERE ACTUALLY PRETTY GOOD) ★

Anyway, enjoy the comics! If you've got your own comics that you'd like to include in future issues, send 'em my way! Here is my address:

HYPOTHESIS:

Today we're going to turn chicken rubber. To do this experiment, you'll need a chicken bone and some

MATERIALS USED: vinegar.

Marceline said this had to be COMICS so here's larry the chicken

METHOD:

Notice how the bone's totally hard. Okay, now put the bone in vinegar.

Leave it for, like, four days. Maybe a week?

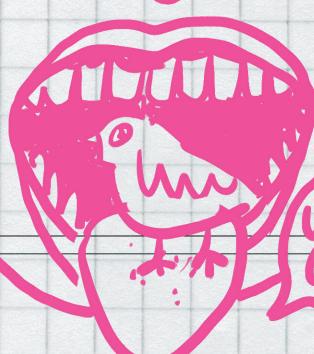

The moral is never chug vinegar and to

RESULTS: always eat calcium!

calcium is available in the juice that comes out of a cow, or spinach that STEP ① Eat Larry. Cram Larry inside you via your mouth. Save a bone or two, though.

SCIENCE! SCIENCE! SCIENCE! Now take the bone out, you can bend it! What what? ★ ★ ★ SCIENCE, that's what! The calcium is all gone, and calcium makes bones hard!
